Certified Foundation Course in Anthroposophical Nursing & AN Specialist Level Training

Dear Members and friends,

It looks to be a very busy spring!

Please look below for the February Medical Section newsletter and the sincere recognition of Ita Wegman's role in establishing the deep foundations of anthroposophical medicine.

There is a more detailed description of the Integrative Medicine Conference speakers list which should be a very impressive event taking place in Stuttgart Germany.

The World Eurythmy Therapy Conference is happening in Dornach, Switzerland and many of our colleagues will be attending. This is only the second conference of its kind to be held!

AAMTA Conference 2016 update

. . . The theme for this conference encompasses everything that is taken in and then transformed within the human being, the animal and the plant, and the earth itself. The need for a deeper understanding of digestion and nutrition becomes more important year by year because the scope of therapy depends upon an ever widening understanding of forces that are active in bringing that which is external into the the digestive and nutritional processes.

Searching - -

"The annual anthroposophic medical training week, the IPMT, is looking for new future venues. Do you know of a center that can accommodate 100-120 people with meeting spaces and lodging, includes access to nature that is in good growth by the end of April, and near an airport? If so, please send an email, with the name and location to adamblanning@hotmail.com. We are considering many different parts of the country, so any and all suggestions are greatly appreciated."

RHYTHMICAL MASSAGE Therapy Association

As we finished the half mark of our Rhythmical Massage Therapy training, we are looking ahead to a new training starting in 2017. Please look out for updates announcing introductory workshops.
